

The Weekly Wrap-up

A Report from Town Administrator Lisa Wong

New restaurant opens in the Falls

Kelly Dobbins, the owner of Iona’s Kitchen, recently opened a second location at 20 Main Street in South Hadley. The grand opening was held last weekend with local and state officials, as well as family, friends and the community coming out to support the new business.

PUBLIC HEALTH NEWS

There are free back-to-school vaccination clinics being offered across the state.

To find a location and dates:
www.mass.gov/info-details/prepare-for-back-to-school-with-free-covid-19-vaccination-clinics

If your child cannot attend a community clinic, you can request an in-home vaccination at:
www.mass.gov/info-details/covid-19-in-home-vaccination-program

The intake number for at-home vaccination is (833) 983-0485.

Selectboard

The next meeting will be Tuesday, October 4 at 7 p.m. The hybrid meeting will be held at the Senior Center. Agenda and link will be posted on the website:
www.southhadley.org/agendacenter

Trash Bills

Bills are due on October 3. Bills can be paid online through the town's website at southhadley.ma.gov, by mail, dropped in the black drop box located behind the Police Department building, or in person.

Farmers Market

The Selectboard approved the Farmers Market move next year to a new venue at Buttery Brook Park on Wednesdays from 2-6PM from May 24th through October 11th

NEWS & ANNOUNCEMENTS

KEEP UP WITH SOUTH HADLEY'S LATEST NEWS

Welcome to the new public health nurse Maureen Couture, who started on September 28, and joins the team in the Health Department. Maureen's background includes working as an RN in the public and private sectors. This position will provide communicable disease community health services. Welcome Maureen!

The KEVS Foundation selected South Hadley as the recipient of two AEDs. The foundation's mission is to provide free youth heart screenings and public access to defibrillators. According to the Foundation, "Most youth who suffer SCA have an undetected heart condition". The Town will work with the foundation to find the best locations for the AEDs. Find out more at <http://kevsfoundation.com>

State Treasurer Deb Goldberg has appointed Lisa Wong as the chair of the Baby Bonds Task Force, which is developing an at-birth publicly funded trust fund program for Massachusetts residents that provides financial opportunities. Baby Bonds aim to close the racial wealth gap and ensure economic security for many low-income families. Visit www.mass.gov/babybonds to learn more.

